

Endangered Species Act Compliance

Award-Winning Consultancy Providing Innovative Solutions to Meet Regulatory and Environmental Challenges

In the U.S., the Endangered Species Act (ESA) of 1973 aims to conserve and recover threatened and endangered species and their habitats. In consultation with the National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) and the Wildlife Service (FWS), federal agencies must ensure that all activities they authorize, fund, or carry out, are not likely to jeopardize the continued existence of ESA-listed species or adversely modify designated critical habitat.

At CSI, we have experience working in the complex interface between the ESA and the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA), the regulation under which the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) registers pesticides. We assess risk to ESA-listed species from the use of pesticides and help identify ways to mitigate potential impacts.

While our primary expertise is in the intersection between FIFRA and ESA, the same principles can be applied to all regulated industries. Our strength comes not only from being able to provide strategic support to a variety of industries, but by anticipating and applying new regulatory, economic, and environmental strategies that are tailored to specific projects and needs.
